

SEAN KENT

Sean Kent is fresh off starring in A&E's original prime-time reality series "Modern Dads" - which he helped shepherd from concept development all the way to 4 million viewers a night on Wednesdays. You may have also seen Sean doing his critically acclaimed stand-up routine. He's had a Showtime special, was a series regular on two seasons of Last Comic Standing, recently headlined an episode of "NickMom Night Out", and has performed in numerous festivals including the prestigious Aspen Laff Festival, the Laughing Skull Festival in Atlanta, and Gilda Radner's Laugh Fest in Grand Rapids, MI. His work on stage is known for being wry, smart, original and daring.

Sean is one of only three comics ever to win both of the most prestigious competitions in comedy (the San Francisco and Seattle International Comedy Competitions). He has also released three albums of original material, all of which have received great reviews from fans and industry alike, and can be heard on All Comedy Radio, Sirius/XM, Pandora, Spotify, Beats and numerous other outlets.

Sean has also written for many TV Shows including the The Best Damn Sports Show Period, Modern Dads, Yes, Dear and the Comedy Central Roast of Pam Anderson (where his writing was singled out as being the evening's best).

Sean is also a two-time cancer survivor and regularly performs at charity functions, including every year at Will Farrell's "Cancer for College" benefit. He lives in Austin, TX with his girlfriend, their two daughters, two happy dogs, five chickens, two bunnies and a pet pig.
